THE Jackson Clarion proposes that the governor's handsome mansion at Jackson be transferred to the trustees of the Institute for the Blind, to be used hereafter as a blind asyium, and suggests that hereafter the governor, whoever he may be, provide his own quarters, at his own expense, like other State officers, and let this costly building, which has, for some years, been more ornamental than useful, be transformed into a home for the only class of the unfortunates of our State who are not properly provided for. The Blind institute property, which embraces about five acres in the heart of the city, would sell for enough to defray any expense that may be necessary in the erection of workshops for the blind on the Mansion square.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

NEW YORK, January 10.—A dispatch from Columbia, South Carolina, says the latest investigation of the recent election in that State is that of the special referee, T. A. Wilkes, in the case of the State officers. The returns from the various counties, and the various precincts in each county, have been again overhauled with great care, this time, however, by clerks and gentlemen representing both political parties. The referee's report will not be completed for several days, but the result is semi-officially announced to-day as follows: Secretary of the treasury, S. S. Leaphart, Democrat; secretary of state, E. C. Hayne, Republican; attorney general, James Comer, Democrat; comptroller general, T. H. Dunn, Republican; superintendent of educa-tion, J. R. Talbert, Republican; adjutant and nspector general, James Kennedy, Republican. who composed the electoral colleges and how they voted. This ce, tainly will bring out the bottom facts.

The house committee charged with the duty of investigating the election in Florida, his political services during our last campaign were inestimable. He never sought to influence the popular mind by appeals to the hatreds which should belong to the past, but sought on all occasions to promote the interests of peace and reconciliation, and all classes of our people, both white and black, are to-day stricken with sorrow at his untimely death.

It is also with much regret that you are informed of the death of Master Newton May, a very promising youth and the oldest son of one of our most estimable citizens, Dr. W. B. May. Young May's funeral took place this afternoon at three o'clock, and was largely attended, especially by the youths of our city. FIFTH DISPATCH. NEW ORLEANS, January 10, 12:30 p.m.-The Republican legislature has a quorum, and is now in session. A crowd of several hundred persons are congregated in the streets around the Statchouse, but are very quiet. The Democratic legislature is also in session at Odd Fellows hall. SIXTH DISPATCH.

NEW ORLEANS, January 10, 1:40 p.m.-The Republican legislature, in joint session, has just elected Ex-Governor Kellogg United States senator for the long term. The indications are that Lieutenant-Governor Antoine SEVENTH DISPATCH.

New Orleans, January 10, 2 p.m.—A Picayune extra says that Alfred Bourges, the newly-appointed sheriff by the supreme court, made a demand for the courtroom this morning and was refused, and it is expected that a squad of police will be sent there to The Republican senators of the senate investigating committee have been in confer-ence with the Republican chiefs at the State-

Among those voting for Kellogg for senator to-day, were Warmoth, Albert Leonard and General M'Millan. The latter two were members of the M Enery senate of 1872. The armed bodies of men who thronged the streets yesterday were not visible to-day. A strong force of Nichella's police, however patrolled the city.

FIRST MOVE TOWARD & COMPROMISE. New Orleans, January 10.—The Democrats assert that the Republican legislature was without a quorum to-day, as the absence of Senators Hamlet, Weber and Demas left the senate with one less than a quorum.

The Republicans claim that, while ther was no quorum of the senate, the joint session had eighty-four members, whereas seventy nine is a quorum. They also say that the death of Senator Meredith has left the Demo cratic senate without the quorum of members claimed by that body.

A THIN STORY. NEW ORLEANS, January 10.—The author s at the Statehouse claim to have authentiformation which, they say, will be publishe in detail in the Republican to-morrow, of bribes offered to members of the Statchouse legislature to join Nicholls's legislature. They believe that these bribes have been accepted in some cases. P. J. Kennedy, an ex-levee contractor under Warmoth, and member of the Statehouse legislature, is indicated by ame as agent employe.

From Washington. Washington, January 10.—The secretary f war and the President were in consultation to-day upon the telegraphic information re-served officially from New Orleans through the military and other sources. The following dispatch was the result:

WAR DEPARTMENT, January 10. cool and collected as on yesterday. He stated that there was no change in the situation since last evening, beyond the fact that the New Orleans is surrounded by a mob. If the New Orleans is surrounded by a mob. If this is so, notify all persons to disperse and com-pel compliance with your order. It is the determination of the President to see that the legislature is not molested. When he has full knowledge of all the facts in the premises he will decide which should be recognized.

J. D. CAMERON, Secretary of War.

The war department is positive that the nilitary are fully able to carry out the orders of the government and maintain the position of the President on Louisiana affairs. Representatives Gibson, Ellis and Levy, Democrats, of the Louisiana delegation, whether any interference was contemplated by him looking to the recognition of either of the rival governments of that State. The secretary of war and the attorney-genera were present. The substance of the Presi dent's reply was that be would not, in the absence of all the facts, issue any order rec ognizing either of the governments or their press violence, preserve the public peace, and revent collisions. The delegation express nemselves perfectly satisfied with the interfter their interview with the President to-ay, telegraphed as follows: "To Francis T. ticholls, governor of Louisiana: We advise no attack on the Statehouse, the maintenance of the present position, and a delay in the election of a long term senator."

OBITUARY.

The late Judge Ephraim S. Fisher, of Mississippi.

The recent and sudden death of this distinguished lawyer and jurist at Georgetown, Texas, to which place he had just changed his almost lifetime resilawyer and jurist at Georgetown, Texas, to which place he had just changed his almost lifetime residence in Mississippi, demands a word from those who knew him best, concerning a man whose name is a household word in the great State of Mississippi at the least, and generally known among the lawyers of the United States.

Judge Fisher was born near Danville, Kentucky, in Lincoln county (which is now Boyle), in November, 1815. He removed to Mississippi in 1833, and has since lived there up to within a few months of his death. At first he located at Vicksburg, and remained there for several years, connected with the Clerk's offices, and completing his legal studies under the direction of Joseph Holf, Esq., now Judge Advocate General in the Department of Justice at Washington. Subsequently he removed to North Mississippi (where he has since resided), where he practiced at the bar for some fifteen years, and long stood in his front rank. He was elected to a Judge-ship in the High Court of Errors and Appeals about the year 1851, which high place he resigned a short time before the late civil war. He took no active part in that calamitous struggle, but was inflexibly opposed to the inauguration, as also to the usurpations and violence that were the consequences of it. At its close he was the choice of the Constitutional Convention of 1865 for Governor, but showed such indifference to success that he was defeated by rival candidates. Since then he resumed his practice at the bar, and more recently was one of the Judges of the Circuit Court, appointed by Governor Alcorn's administration. He was possessed of qualities and characteristics of heart and mind and purpose in such combination as is very rarely found. He united with a chivalrous sense of honor and integrity of heart and purpose that knew nothing but right and justice, a magnanimous soul that responded always to the cry of poverty or oppression, and sympathized with a chivalrous sense of honor and integrity of heart and purpose that knew nothing but right and justice, a magnanimous soul that responded always to the cry of poverty or oppression, and sympathized with the weak and friendless. His life was a grand illustration of unbending integrity and of steadfast and unulterable devotion and principle. Intellect anally he had few equals. His mind was of the comprehensive order, which grasped readily and immediately the great and essential and controlling features of any subject, and presented them nakedly and powerfully, whether in social conversation or the impassioned language of the advocate, or in the majestic announcement of judicini opinion. As a practicing lawyer, he was a very coke upon the elementary principles of the law, and no man more familiar with forms and precedents. These, united with a magnificent common-sense understanding, made him a most formidable opponent. But like all great men he had a true humility which made him deferential to inferiors. Taken altogether, he was a man of unique moid and of sterling worth. Modern degeneracy had not reached him. The features of his chyracter has the hardihood of antiquity. In the days of Washington he would have been a Marshail, or in the late revolution a Chase. His nature was above mere partisanship. No man can speak in disparagement of the heroic character of his virtues, for he builded on a rock.
